MORE BROKERS GO TO THE WALL ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE

(AFTERNOON ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAMS)
NEW YORK, July 27.—The failure of Hooley & Company, brokers, was announced on the Stock Exchange today

The firm of Edwin S. Hooley & Company, bankers and brokers of Wall street, New York, was formed on July 1, 1902, succeeding the firms of Rolston & Hooley and Rolston & Bass, which were established in 1881. The members of the firm are Edwin S. Hooley, Frank E. Brumley, and Norbert Heinsheimer. Mr. Hooley has been identified with Wall street for over twenty years, having been a member of both of the other firms. The business of the firm was that of a general stock brokerage and investment bond business. It had private wires to Boston, Chicago, Milwaukee, and the Northwest, and did an exceptionally large commission business in Boston, being long and favorably known there.

ROME, Italy, July 27.—Cardinal Gibbons arrived here today to attend the conclave for the election of the Pope. The American Cardinal was very cordially received.

BRENTONS POINT, July 27.—The first official race to determine the defender of the America's cup was won today by the Reliance. The new boat finished with a good lead over the Constitution and Columbia.

GLASGOW, Scotland, July 27.—An excursion train bearing a large number of passengers who had been to Dublin during the visit of King Edward, struck the buffers today. Thirteen were killed and a score injured.

PANAMA, July 27.—The rebellion against Colombian authority which has threatened for some time past came to a focus today when General Cobos, commander of the national forces, took the field as leader of the insurrectionists.

Governor Mutis made good his escape and at present Cobos seems to have practical control of the situation. The rebellion will have a far-reaching effect on the outcome of the Panama Canal Treaty and arises largely from the delay of the Colombian Congress in acting on the matter.

Panama prefers autonomy and all the benefits to be derived from the canal.

FOLSOM, California, July 27.—The inmates of Folsom prison today perpetrated the most daring prison delivery ever known in the criminal history of the State. Fourteen convicts made good their escape after a hard fight with the warden and guards. In the fight that took place the convicts captured Warden Wilkinson, his grandson, the captain of the guard and seven others. After getting outside the prison the Wilkinsons and the captain of the guard were released. The other guards were held. One of the convicts returned to the prison voluntarily. Thirteen are at large. Guard Cotter was killed in the first fight. The local militia company has been called out to guard the prison.

KALAUOKALANI IS PRESIDENT

Honolulu men, and as well they declared that the names of the sixty-five men now on the committee should be read for the approval of the convention. It was said that two members of the committee were dead, and one member declared vociferously that the Pake member, Ng Mon War, should be left off. Poepee said that the members must be chosen by ballot and soon after presented his resignation from the committee. There were a number of nominations to fill vacancies, among them being those of Henry Meheula, J. Kealoha, Peter Makia, Ben Akala, J. A. Akina, and the name of Curtis P. Iaukea was sent up by Notley but withdrawn. The discussion grew over Poepee, there being many number of declarations of friendship for him, and protestations that he must not be permitted to quit. Finally to secure peace the matter was permitted to go over to today.

A finance committee was next undertaken and this met with greater success. As completed the committee is as follows: Hawaii, John T. Brown; Maui, S. E. Kaue; Molokai, J. N. Uahinu; Oahu, Charles Notley; Kauai, John B. Lelelewe.

DECLARES FOR INDEPENDENCE.
Former Delegate Wilcox was then introduced for a second speech and held the audience with him for a half hour. He declared that the time had come for unity. He said there must be no more of the talking of the outbreak of factions in the party, that only by pulling together will there be gained the victories that are wanted. He reviewed the fights of the past, saying that three years ago the fact that the people were as one made victory possible, that last time there was disunion and consequently the Republicans won handily. Likewise he told just how the Republicans came to win giving the delegates some information of the organization of the Republican methods of carrying on the war.

Taking up the local campaign which is now to open, he said that it was a time for the people to select the very best men among the Hawaiians to lead their tickets. There are many religions, he said, and a man is not judged by the church he attends. So with the parties, there are good men in each and the duty of the convention was to make up a ticket of the very best men possible, but of course making sure that all were Hawaiians.

Taking up his plans for the future he said that he was preparing a memorial to Congress, asking that there be given to the Islands their independence just as the United States gave freedom to Cuba, with a protectorate. Memorials would be given to the members of the convention for their signature, and he hoped all would sign. This was greeted with applause. These and any other memorials to be passed by the convention, he said, should be sent to Washington by the Delegate elected last fall. He closed with an appeal for unity.

Curtis P. Iaukea was next called upon for a speech. He said that he felt something like a prodigal son coming back to his people, but he was glad to see the faces before him. It pained him to see attempts made to disrupt the Home Rule party for he thought the party of the Hawaiians should be kept in existence. He blamed the Republicans for insincerity, but said also that there were Home Rulers who were false to the declarations of the party in its platform. That he could not join the Home Rule party in its fight, he said, was a cause of sorrow to him, but he had chosen his party and would abide by it. The choice of his party for Delegate was the young ali, who had knocked at the door of Home Rule, and had not been received.

The convention adjourned to meet this morning at 8 o'clock.
